

The Role: Editor-in-Chief BMJ Evidence-Based Medicine - January 2021

BMJ is looking for the next Editor-in-Chief to continue the development of BMJ Evidence-Based Medicine into a premier resource that offers high-quality, clinically relevant, evidence-based content to help improve outcomes for patients.

We are looking for a candidate who is up to date with current trends, topics and controversies in evidence-based medicine, clinical research and research methodology, and who is experienced in critically appraising clinical studies. You will need to demonstrate a vision for the future development of the journal. The successful candidate will act as an ambassador actively promoting and strengthening the journal and upholding the highest ethical standards of professional practice.

This is an independent contractor position. International and/or joint applications are welcome; we particularly welcome applicants from traditionally underrepresented groups. Interviews will be held via our online conferencing system. Term of office is 3 years; the role will take up one day a week. Contact Kelly Turner for more information and to apply with a CV: kturner@bmj.com. Application deadline: 10th November 2020

About BMJ Evidence-Based Medicine

BMJ Evidence-Based Medicine publishes original research, insight and opinion on what matters for evidence-based care. The journal focuses on the tools, methods, and concepts that are central to practising evidence-based medicine.

Indexed in MEDLINE, the Emerging Sources Citation Index and acquiring almost 1 million article downloads a year, BMJ Evidence-Based Medicine also publishes blogs and provides regular updates on Twitter @BMJ_EBM, further contributing to the latest debate and developments in evidence-based medicine.

Being an Editor for BMJ

As Editor of BMJ Evidence-Based Medicine you will benefit from the following:

- Competitive annual honorarium
- Annual networking Editors' Retreat with all BMJ Journal Editors
- Attendance at the Medical Editors' training course
- Free subscription to the journal for you and your Editorial Team
- Access to exclusive BMJ content, including The BMJ and BMJ Learning
- Full training and support; from publishing processes to social media
- Mentorship from The BMJ's editorial team
- The chance to shape the field and play a role in the development of the specialty
- Interact with the latest research from scientists based all over the world

About BMJ

BMJ Evidence-Based Medicine is owned by BMJ. BMJ advances healthcare worldwide by sharing knowledge and expertise to improve experiences and outcomes. Along with our renowned flagship title, The BMJ, we also offer over 60 specialty journals and a world leading collection of digital professional development resources. Our unique digital tools help healthcare professionals support decisions and improve the quality of delivery.